W. Ben Thrasher Killed by Truck on Blevins Road

Farmer, 52, Instantly Killed in Accident Saturday Night

TO BE NO INQUEST Leaves Truck, Walks Across Road, and Is Hit by Another Car

W. Ben Thrasher, 52-year-old Hempstead county farmer, was instantly killed in a highway accident early Saturday night on the Hope-Blevins road about eight miles north of this city.

Several persons were witnesses to the accident, including Mrs. Thrasher, widow of the dead man. Coroner J. H. Weaver said Monday that no inquest would be held.

Mr. and Mrs. Thrasher were among several persons returning home on a truck after shopping in Hope during the day. Mr. and Mrs. Thrasher had alighted from the vehicle which was headed north toward Blevins.

Mrs. Thrasher had walked across the highway toward her home to await her husband who had been delayed a moment. As Thrasher started across the highway, he stepped into the path of another truck headed toward Blevins.

The truck was driven by Erwin Burke of the DeAnn community. The right front fender struck Thrasher, breaking his neck, both legs and crushing his chest. He was carried a distance of about 30 yards.

An automobile trailing the Burke truck also passed over the body of Thrasher. Officers said the car was driven by Hendrix Hulse, Hope youth, who was also en route toward Blevins.

Thrasher was dead when picked up from the highway. His body was brought to Hope Furniture company undertaking parlors where it was being held pending the arrival of a son, Stacy Thrasher of Ely, Nevada.

Other survivors include his widow, a son Winford of Washington, a brother, "Doc" Thrasher of Iabel, Okla., four sisters, Mrs. Tom Kelley of Spring Hill, Miss Minnie Thrasher of Spring Hill, Mrs. Arthur Tarnage of Iabel, Okla., and Mrs. Dona Curtis of Hugo, Okla.

The funeral services had not been announced at noon Monday, but probably will be held Tuesday or Wednesday.

World's Fair Representative Will Arrive in Hope Tuesday

L. G. Moanan, courier to Arkansas from the New York World's fair, will arrive in Hope Tuesday morning to call on Mayor Albert Graves to obtain his signature upon the scroll sent out by Governor Whalen, president of the exposition.

All states are now being toured by these good will couriers. Forty-nine cars, bearing special World's Fair decorations, started out from New York ten days ago, the extra car going to the District of Columbia.

The tour will close in Arkansas Wednesday when Mr. Moanan will visit Governor Carl E. Bailey and deliver to him the scroll and car decorations for exhibition at the state capital.

During the past week Mr. Moanan visited twenty cities, where the mayors signed the scroll, and in many instances, the signature was affixed with elaborate ceremonies.

Mr. Moanan travels in a specially equipped Chevrolet car, presented to the World's Fair, especially for the trip. When Mr. Moanan's journey is over, the car will have traveled over 5,000 miles, almost 4,000 of which have been in Arkansas.

CRANIUM CRACKER

One day Mr. Brown hired an auto to take him to Los Angeles, 20 miles away, and return, for $8.

When he was four miles on his way, a friend joined him and went to the city and back four miles with him. The driver charged Mr. Brown $3 more for taking his friend.

If his friend had paid him his equal share of the expenses, would Mr. Brown have lost or gained in money by taking him?

Pennsylvania Crisis

NEW YORK—(AP)—Postmaster General Farley said Monday he felt the political situation in Pennsylvania "imperils the success of the Democratic party in the November election."

He spoke as chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Farley said: "In my judgment the only way to protect the interest of the people in that state (Pennsylvania) would be to nominate Tom Kennedy for governor and George Earle for senator in Tuesday's primaries."

"This will not be a complete victory for either faction, yet I am convinced it is the only solution for the present situation."

Kennedy, CIO's Choice

Postmaster Farley's endorsement goes to Tom Kennedy, who is the choice of John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization (CIO) for governor in the Democratic primary. This is in opposition to Senator Grandy, who is backing Charles A. Jones, Pittsburgh lawyer, for the governorship.

Suchow Surrounded

SHANGHAI, China—(AP)—Japanese dispatches declared Monday that Suchow had been completely surrounded and Japanese troops were closing in from all sides on thousands of Chinese trapped in the area around the vital central China rail junction city.

The Japanese asserted it would be only a matter of hours before they actually assault the strategic city for which they have been fighting for months.

Labor Board Upheld

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The United States Supreme Court ruled Monday that working men who strike as the result of unfair labor practices by their employer are entitled to the protection of the National Labor Relations Act.

The decision was given in upholding an order of the National Labor Relations Board directing the Mackay Radio & Telegraph Co. to reinstate five employees who had gone on strike in San Francisco.

Justice Roberts, delivering the decision, asserted the strikers remained employees under the labor act.

The supreme court agreed Monday to review litigation brought by 18 private utilities challenging the constitutionality of the government's TVA power program.

Reorganization Bill? WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Roosevelt discussed with congressional leaders Monday the possibility of revising his once-defeated government reorganization bill, but there was no indication that a definite decision was reached.

"We discussed reorganization, but there was no 'must' put on it," Representative Rayburn, Texas Democrat, house majority leader, said on leaving the White House.

Senator Johnson Cook's Manager

Will Establish Campaign Headquarters in Little Rock This Week

Major political development of the past week is the announcement of Judge R. A. (Bob) Cook of the selection of Senator Arthur J. Johnson, of Lincoln county to serve as his campaign manager during the gubernatorial campaign this summer.

Senator Johnson, who was a candidate for governor two years ago and who retired from the race shortly before the election, has twice served his district as state senator, first in 1909, when the late George W. Donaghy was governor and again in 1933, the people of his district, comprising Lincoln, Dallas and Cleveland counties elected him without opposition.

Senator Johnson assisted in drafting the Refunding Act, at the special session of 1934 and served on the special legislative committee that sponsored the bill. He was floor leader for the bill in the senate. Commenting on this piece of legislation, in which Senator Johnson played so important a part, the late United States Senator Joe T. Robinson stated that the refunding bill was one of the important if not the most important pieces of legislation ever enacted in Arkansas during the entire time he had occasion to watch the senate's progress.

Arthur Johnson was born and reared on a small farm in Lincoln county, operated by his father, pioneer citizen. He spent his early youth, like most farm boys, performing farm labor and attending the public schools from two to five months a year, graduating from Star City High School. Working his way through the University of Arkansas, he graduated from that institution in 1907. He also finished a course at Lebanon Law School and was admitted to the bar in 1909. Mr. Johnson

Civil Service Law Upheld for County Welfare Leaders

Supreme Court Holds Directors Must Be on Eligible List

ONE-THIRD QUALIFY

Only 25 of 75 County Directors Taken From Civil Service Rolls

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court Monday affirmed a ruling of Pulaski chancery court that county welfare directors must be chosen from civil service lists.

The court's ruling upheld an injunction granted Mrs. W. A. Moore of Fordyce, former Dallas county welfare director, against state officials, enjoining them from adding to the payroll the name of Miss Ruth Elizabeth Busbee, non-civil service director, who had been elected to succeed Mrs. Moore.

The state civil service office said the decision affected approximately two-thirds of the county welfare directors in Arkansas.

The office said only 25 county directors were civil service eligibles, and the remainder of the 75 were not. Counties in which directors are on civil service lists include: Hempstead and White.

Mail Your Letter Now, Marking It for Airmail on May 19

By R. P. BOWEN

Secretary Chamber of Commerce

This is Air Mail week, celebrating the 20th anniversary of the Air Mail Service and on Thursday of this week, the first pick-up of air mail in Hope will occur when a government plane will land at the airport at 12:50 p. m. to receive the thousands of air mail letters awaiting its arrival.

Two thousand school children, the Hope High School Band, and nearly every citizen of Hope are expected to be present to second the welcome of Mayor Graves to the visiting officials of the Postoffice Department.

In celebration of this event the Postoffice Department has issued a special air mail stamp, the Chamber of Commerce has offered free envelopes imprinted with a beautiful "cactus" design, and a special program is being prepared. A loud speaker will be used so that everyone present can hear as well as see.

Postmaster Robert Wilson has received envelopes or "covers" from all over the United States from stamp collectors, asking that the Hope cachet be applied and their letters mailed on this special flight. Every citizen of Hope should send as many letters as possible, as these envelopes will be valuable souvenirs of this occasion for years to come. Many of these first covers have become very valuable and in future years these covers bearing the Hope cachet may be worth many times the cost of the air mail stamp.

So be sure to save your mail for Thursday, or better still, mail your letters now and ask the Postoffice to hold them for the pick-up Thursday. Write as many of your friends as you think would appreciate a beautiful souvenir, and by all means write your letter so that you will have a souvenir for yourself and your children.

If we reach our quota of 6,000, the 1938 census of population in Hope, we will receive national publicity and at the same time hasten the time when we will have a beautiful airport and regular airmail service. You can render a real public service by co-operating with the Chamber of Commerce, the Air Mail Service and the public spirited citizens of Hope in building your mail until Thursday and sending all the air mail letters you can. Do your part to make this a great success.

Special music and singing featured the service, both instrumental and vocal. This part of the meetings will be stressed nightly throughout the entire campaign.

The Rev. Mr. Hayes will speak each night this week at 8 o'clock at the Tabernacle, with the exception of Saturday night. The general public is invited.

An Old Word Bobs Up

ONE of the interesting little by-products of the La Follette party in Wisconsin is an apparent revival of the word, "progressive."

Twenty years ago, or more, that word occupied much the same position that the word "liberal" has occupied in the past decade. It had no exact definition, but in general it implied a willingness to go forward, to experiment, to take chances, coupled with a desire to make the uncertain future better than the imperfect present.

But no word ever seems to stay put very long. As the first Senator La Follette used the term, a progressive was a man who stood for a fairly well-defined program of political action; then Col. Theodore Roosevelt took the word and used it to christen a new political party in which the La Follette program was rather substantially modified.

And then, at last, the Roosevelt party went out of existence, and the word came along, and the reforms that had been fought for so hard in the early part of the century began to look either unattainable or illusory; presently we began to hear about "tired progressives," and the former leaders in the movement began to write books about their disillusionment.

SO WE stopped hearing about progressives, in the 1920's, and the social-political outlook which once had been called progressive became known as liberal; but that word, too, suffered many changes.

You could find hardly anyone who would admit that he was not a liberal. It got so, finally, that any man who had ceased to believe in the divine right of kings could call himself a liberal; and as the word got diluted and watered down the men who had originally used the word got tired just as the progressives had done before them, and the liberalism of the early twenties died out as the progressivism of the preceding generations had done.

So now we are back with the progressives once more, or will be if the La Follette movement re-popularizes the catchword. And the whole business inspires a melancholy wonder about these liberal-progressive swings that take hold every second decade or so.

Why do they seem to follow that unwritten law of diffusion and slow death? What is there about them that sends them all down the path of disillusion, in the end?

TIED progressives, tired liberals; why do they get tired? We don't hear of tired reactionaries, or tired revolutionaries either. The extremist always seems to keep his faith and his vigor. It is the middle-of-the-road man, the slightly-left-of-center person, who wears out. Why?

Maybe the trouble is that the liberal, or progressive, tries to make the best of both worlds: the future and the past. It is a hard job, perhaps an impossible one. And yet it seems to be the way America progresses.

Boy's Ambition

A PERSON who is blind is a person whom many men can never completely know. Men who have their sight, but lack imagination, regard him as something entirely different from themselves.

Let such consider Alfred Aldinger of Frankfort, N. Y. Aldinger, blind for the last 20 years, realized his life's ambition the other day. What do you imagine it was he wanted to do? Was it some strange thing you would never have thought of? Think of some of the ambitions you entertained as a boy.

What Aldinger always wanted to do, and what he finally did, was ride a fire truck to a fire, and operate the siren.

That ought to bring the blind a little closer to you now. What seems to set this particular man apart from his fellows is that he did finally ride a truck to a fire.

Modern Treatments for Crippled Bodies

The development of the Georgia Institute of Technology, in which there is an infection in the structure of the bones. The modern orthopedic hospital includes not only a pool in which it is possible to give children the benefit of the underwater gymnastics but also a shop for the building of braces, and other apparatus which will hold the deformed tissues in place and gradually bring about correction. There must be equipment for extension or pulling on tissues that tend to contract. Apparatus is developed for exercise and for controlled pull which aids weakened tissues in proper development.

Many conditions will not proceed to improvement until there has been a surgical operation by which tendons are transplanted, nerves repaired, or other structural modifications induced. In the decisions as to what operations are to be performed, the orthopedic surgeon, the expert in neurology, the specialist in diseases of children or in infectious diseases co-operate, bringing to bear all of their special knowledge.

When competent physicians have made available to them such facilities as are now offered in some of the institutions that have been described, reconstruction and repair of the crippled becomes exceedingly bright.

Guide Child Into Spirit, Not Form, of Service

(No. 91)
We have talked over the necessity of little children learning responsibility and doing their share of the work. But there is another angle of service that goes into the recipe for character.

This is a spirit of willing helpfulness outside the beaten track of habit. It consists of the spontaneous urge to be of use, as the occasion presents.

One time some little girls I knew made holiday baskets for an orphanage near them. They were permitted to put on their best clothes and hats and make the presentations in person. The poor children were happy to get their baskets of bunnies and eggs, and openly admired their small benefactors. But something in the whole picture struck a discordant note with me, in spite of the fact that these children had a basket made in the basket.

Behind the children's self-interest and the small amount of help for the small things.

This perhaps illustrates the difference between service that reflects the spirit of service and service that is a mere form of character. The other is a

Contentment

Time was we said we'd happy be
And ask no greater thing
If at our doorway we could see
The tulips bloom in spring
And if we owned a garden gay
With phlox and marigold
We'd be content from day to day
Till we at last grew old.
Time was we dreamed about a place
Which we could call our own
With windows trimmed with ruffled lace
And filled of rugged stone.
Then if we had some books to read
And friends to tap the door.
We should have everything we'd need
And ask of life no more.
The tulips came to bloom this year.
The grass again is green.
A pair of robins nesting near Add color to the scene.
We've books beside the fire to read
Good friends to tap the door.
I'm sure we've everything we need
Since life can give no more.

men of the state is acknowledged. He has always shown great pride in civic

The selection of Senator Arthur complete surprise to political observers, although at least six of the most prominent men throughout the state have been mentioned as possible timber to head the Cook forces.

Senator Johnson will go to Little

CLUB NOTES

Mt. Nebo
The April meeting of the Mt. Nebo Home Demonstration club was held in the home of Mrs. W. A. Powell with the president presiding.

Eight members answered the roll call by telling what they had done since the last meeting in the way of home improvement.

As Miss Bullington was absent the president gave a demonstration on basket making of pine needles.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. John Laha on May 26.

The peculiar cawing produces an unusually croaking sound that lasts
for several minutes. When excited, the bird snorts, but the call to the young sounds like the lowing of a cow.

to our economic problems.
This temporary situation brings into
clear relief the real nature of our economic organization. Up to the present time, the principal sources of
the country's wealth have been exploited with the sole aim of getting
rich at any price. Because of this fact,
the tendency has been to exploit men
rather than natural resources.

The educational problem is being
cared for to the maximum of our economic possibilities. This problem is considered central in the life of the
country, intimately related to all others.

U. S. Relations

Question: How may better understanding between the United States and Mexico and Latin-American countries in general best be encouraged?

Answer: All methods which help to develop understanding between peoples are useful for the purpose of bringing about a closer relationship
in their dealings with one another.

Mexico gives every facility to tourists, not only for the commercial advantages which the tourist business has for a certain section of our people, but principally because Mexico believes that those who visit and travel freely about the country are naturally the best ambassadors of understanding and good-will when they return home.

Notwithstanding the official formalism which at times makes contacts between peoples difficult, diplomatic relations, nonetheless, are indispensable between nations. Mexico maintains friendly relations with many peoples of the earth regardless of the ideologies of their governments. For Mexico believes that the policies of each government may be transitory, while relations among peoples, in their very nature, must be enduring.

Question: To what extent has the "arming of the proletariat" been carried out, in what manner, and to what purpose?

Answer: The farmers of Mexico are organized as an auxiliary to the National Army for the purpose of maintaining order and peace in the regions
where they live.

Question: Do your plans insure the vote for Mexican women in the future?

Answer: Congress is discussing this question during the present session.
There is no real reason for denying the vote to women in a country where the laws have already accorded them economic liberty, the actual basis for political rights.

Chief Problems
Question: What are Mexico's chief problems? Educational? Economic?
Social? Political?

Answer: The problems of Mexico are all intimately related. One might best say that rather than various problems, it is a question of many aspects of a single problem. Quite as important as the economic is the educational,
the social or the political, but at any given moment, any one of these may take on special importance.

Thus, at the present time, the situation arising as the result of the oil expropriation gives special significance

to our economic problems.
This temporary situation brings into
clear relief the real nature of our
economic organization. Up to the present time, the principal sources of
the country's wealth have been ex-
ploited with the sole aim of getting
rich at any price. Because of this fact,
the tendency has been to exploit men
rather than natural resources.

The educational problem is being
cared for to the maximum of our economic possibilities. This problem is considered central in the life of the
country, intimately related to all others.

For example, in solving the agrarian problem, it is necessary that the distribution of lands and the giving of credit to the collective farms be complemented by a technical, economic and social education that will enable farmers not only to cultivate their lands intelligently but will give them
a clear understanding of the relation of their own products to national and foreign markets.

In the narrow sense of the word,
there is no political problem in the country at the present time.

Civil Liberties
Question: Do you propose to maintain complete civil and political liberty in Mexico for those not included in your party? Do you propose to maintain complete liberty to worship according to conscience?

Answer: The Party of the Mexican Revolution (Partido de la Revolucion Mexicana) supports the present government. However, this should not be taken to mean that other political parties in opposition to it may not legally and practically be organized.

In Mexico, all citizens, in accordance with the Constitution as well as in actual practice, have the right to organize political parties.

What happens is that in Mexico no party which does not have the confidence of the laboring masses can prosper, since the farmers and industrial workers are the deciding force in our civic contests.

Religious liberty in Mexico exists with the restrictions imposed by the Constitution relating to acts of extramural religious ceremonies. These restrictions can in no way be considered as limiting liberty of conscience.

Seeds in Newspapers
Are Used for Lawn

HAWKELL, Eng.—A—The local rector, aided by his parishioners' old newspapers, is going after the perfect lawn.

"Spreading the papers out flat on the ground, he coats them with a thin layer of paste, sprinkles on grass seed and folds them over like sandwiches. This system, he hopes, will give him a flat, smooth, evenly sown lawn.

"Paper has been used before for a quickly pulp and let the young shoot through at the same time protecting the seeds from the birds."

TOBACCO PLANTERS
SAY:
"We smoke
Camels because
we know
tobacco"

At auctions, Marvin Holloman, well-known planter, sees Camel buyers pay
top prices for the finer grades of his crops. Mr. Holloman
says: "At auctions the Camel buyers pay more and take the real choice lots of tobacco. That's why we tobacco planters, who know tobacco quality inside and out, make Camel our cigarette. Then we're sure we're smoking finer, COSTLIER tobaccos, and they sure make a big difference!"

"I'm a tobacco
planter," says Mr.
T. Strickland, who sold his highest grade tobacco to Camels. "Last year
those Camel buyers bought up the finest lots of my tobacco. And they sure bid up to get them. There's a big difference in those expensive Camel tobaccos—so I smoke Camels myself.
And there's your reason why most planters I know smoke Camels."

John T. Bone, who cultivates some of North Carolina's
choicest leaf tobacco, remarks on the sale of his last crop: "Yes sir! I saw my best lots go for Camel cigarettes, and you can bet those Camel buyers paid top prices for them. It's no wonder I smoke the cigarette made of finer, more expensive tobaccos—Camels! Most planters smoke Camels too, for smokers who grow
tobacco know tobacco."

Camels are distinctly different from other cigarettes, Mr. Stahl—and they're different in many ways. The longer I smoke Camels, the more I appreciate their natural smoothness and mildness
—the real mildness that's easy on the throat. Camels never tire my taste.
Camels agree with me—from all angles.
You know, I hear so many top-flight golfers praise them. Camels never get on your nerves, and Camels set you right!"

FAMOUS GOLFERS—men who need iron nerves and steady hands for that winning stroke—and millions of other people under the strain of everyday life—all appreciate this fact: Camels suit your cigarette taste from every angle. Naturally, CAMELS SET YOU RIGHT! There's a world of enjoyment in a cigarette like that. Smoke Camels yourself.
See why they are so different. And note particularly the greater pleasure and contentment you experience from Camel's costlier tobacco!

Gene Tunney was talking about the Louis-Schmeling fight.

The ex-champion has not picked Schmeling, as you have repeatedly read.

He wants to see both in training before making a choice.

"Schmeling has the advantage of having once knocked out Louis," says Tunney. "Max also has the immeasurability of spiritual inspiration. He feels himself to be the representative of a new world-wide racial movement."

"But all this can be erased with a single punch.

"My advice to Louis is to unload his heavy guns early.

"The trouble with Louis is that he tries to think.

"Blackburn reminds me of Ty Cobb trying to run the Detroit baseball club.

"I know this much about Joe Louis for sure. If he fights 30 years, he'll never know how to behave on the floor.

"That's the one thing in my boxing career of which I'm proud. I had never been knocked down... not even in a gymnasium... when Jack Dempsey clipped me in Chicago. Yet I instinctively knew what to do. I realize that I must have looked bad run-

BIRTH OF A SONG

"SOME OF THESE DAYS"

By Shelton Brooks

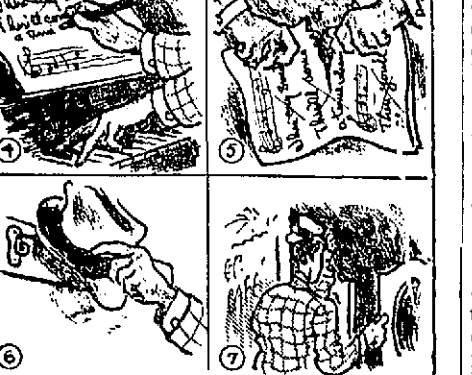

THERE was an old family organ in the Brooks' home in Amesburg, Ontario, and Shelton first met music on its keyboards—while brother, with the longer legs, pumped.

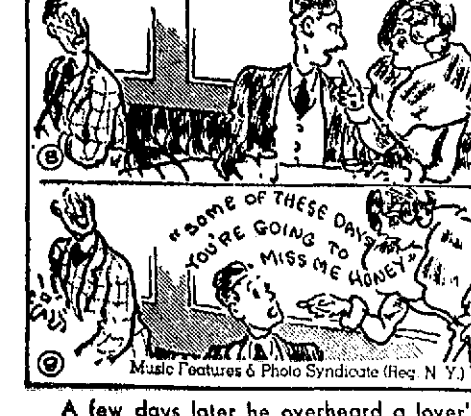

At sixteen, his parents moved to Detroit, and Shelton became a mimic. His impersonation of Bert Williams at Luna Park, Cleveland, scored a hit with that comedian, at least.

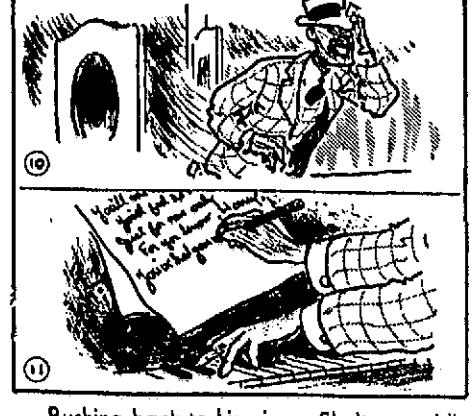

Touring vaudeville, Shelton entertained backstage by improvising on his own themes on the small-time circuit pianos.

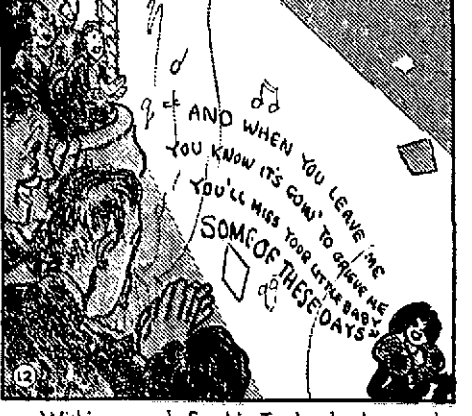

One number kept recurring to him, but which he wrote it down he was dissatisfied with the result—it seemed to have no theme.

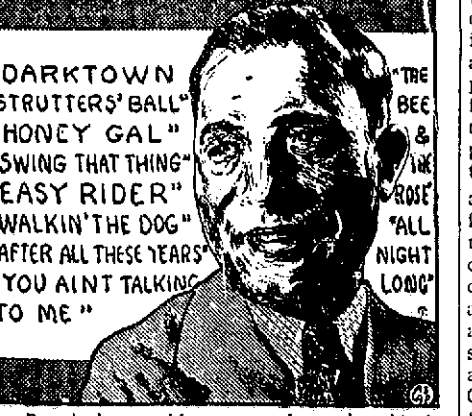

A few days later he overheard a lover's quarrel in a cafe, and the girl's fast words supplied the missing theme.

Rushing back to his piano, Shelton rapidly completed the music and wrote the words of "Some of These Days".

Within a week, Sophie Tucker had scored a great hit with the song. As other vaudeville performers took up the song, it swept the country.

Brooks kept writing, earned membership in the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers. He is today a night club favorite and authority on jazz and swing.

Czech Compromise on Nazis, Results From British Plea

Konrad Henlein, Nazi, Satisfied by Conference in London

A HOME RULE PLAN

Sudeten Germans Inside Czecho-Slovakia Win Greater Rights

PRAHA, Czechoslovakia.—Konrad Henlein, chief of Czechoslovakia's Sudeten German minority, Sunday returned from London saying his two-day talks with British leaders had "very satisfactory results."

The Nazi leader declined to reveal reasons for his satisfaction, but informed Czech circles shared his optimism in the belief tension had abated over the problem of the 3,500,000 Germans within Czechoslovakia's borders.

It was believed Henlein had been urged on all sides to use moderation in making demands for Sudeten German autonomy, thus increasing the possibility of conciliation.

"The government virtually has completed its draft of a new minorities statute, intended to pacify Henlein and his followers, and Premier Milan Hodza intends to discuss it with Henlein before submitting it to Parliament to speed up settlement."

It was believed that German leader would ask time to consider the measure and in view of this the premier's scheduled broadcast to the nation Friday would be postponed a few days.

Far-reaching concessions to the Sudeten Germans, particularly in the matter of language requirements, were expected to be made. It was believed German would be permitted in courts of two provinces—Bohemia and Moravia—whereas heretofore this has been permitted only in localities with more than 20 per cent German population.

Civil service posts also would be apportioned on a basis of the nationality ratio, resulting in virtual home rule for many districts predominantly German. Government supplies would be distributed on an equal basis to Germans and others, and German unemployed be given consideration on public works programs.

"As a check, it was said, there would be guarantees for non-Germans within the purely Germanic areas, thus safeguarding Jews from any discrimination. There was no indication, however, that the government would yield to Henlein's demands for a change in Czechoslovakia's foreign policy of alliances with both France and Soviet Russia."

"Brazil's action against German citizens compels us to protest, for it is our right and our duty to protect them," it added.

Mexico in Fear of a New Revolt

Federal Troops Surround General Cedillo, Hero of Peasants

SAN LUIS POTOSI, Mexico.—(AP)—Government troops took possession of four church rooftops and mounted anti-aircraft guns there Sunday as tension mounted in fear of an outbreak by Gen. Saturnin Cedillo's armed agrarians.

Detachments were stationed atop the strategically located churches, while an anti-aircraft unit was set up at a principal street corner and guards patrolled public buildings of the state capital, under virtual martial law.

Though there was no word of disorders, the stringent military precautions heightened the alarm of San Luis Potosi citizens.

Three thousand troops were held in barracks here and 5,000 more were scattered through the state. Garrisons were reinforced heavily around the Las Palomas estate of Cedillo, President Lazaro Cardenas' opponent since his resignation last August as minister of agriculture.

Cedillo remained at Las Palomas, ill enough for physicians' care but not confined to his bed. He was surrounded by the peasants he thrice led in civil warfare.

To these peasants estimated at 18,000 to 35,000, he had given land and guns. Leaders of the agricultural colonies he carved out of his once spacious estate have said they would yield neither soil nor arms without a fight.

It was learned that Thursday an army detachment appeared at the "Alvaro Obregon" colony and ordered the peasants to surrender their guns. The latter refused, saying they recognized no chieftain but Cedillo.

Mexico City reports that Cardenas had accepted Cedillo's resignation from the army, in which he held the top rank of division general, could not be confirmed at Las Palomas.

(San Luis Potosi is 225 miles northwest of Mexico City.)

It was learned, however, that Cedillo would not take over the military command of Michoacan, Cardenas' home state, to which he was assigned April 1, although the 45-day sick leave expired him then expired Sunday.

The stout revolutionary veteran, 45, sometimes called "El Toro" (The Bull) because of his physical strength, quit the cabinet because he did not like Cardenas' agrarian policies. Associates said he left because he believed Cardenas was wrong in taking productive, well-tended farm land from its owners and giving it to peasants ill-prepared to cultivate it.

Spinsters, Too, Ask British Pensions

10,000 Unmarried Women March on London for Huge Rally

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—With cries of "onward spinsters, onward," more than 10,000 of Britain's unmarried women marched on London Saturday with banners flying for a rally of their National Spinsters' Pensions Association. They demanded "state pensions at 55."

Drawn from all over the country the spinsters trooped into Kingsway Hall and chanted their battle-cry whenever a speaker rose on the platform.

The movement's founder, Florence White, said she now had 125,000 followers and asked the rally to thank the government for naming a committee to study the spinsters' pension problem.

A sudden downpour broke the ranks when they marched on Hyde park under heavy police escort.

SPEAKING OF SAFETY

With the County Agent

Clifford L. Smith

Vetch has proven satisfactory as a soil builder to H. W. Timberlake of the Blevins community, who carried out the following experiment this past year. Mr. Timberlake planted 7 acres of corn following vetch turned under. He also planted 7 acres of corn which he fertilized with 8-4-6 fertilizer and cotton seed meal. He states that the yield on the plot where he used fertilizer and cotton seed meal was 25 bushels per acre, while the yield on the plot following vetch turned under was 40 bushels. Mr. Timberlake states that vetch will play a very important part in soil building as more farmers become convinced of its value.

C. M. Dowdy of Nashville, Ark., Route 1, says he sowed about 25 pounds of Koke lespedeza on four acres of land in the early part of April 1937, after clearing the land and putting it in good condition.

Mr. Dowdy estimates that he got more hay from the above four acres on his farm than any other eight acres on the farm. He got 13 big loads of hay, which was enough to feed 25 head of stock all winter, with some left on hand.

After cutting the hay from the four acres he left the last crop to reseed itself and has a good stand for the 1938 crop.

How does she get away with it? She is informed! Just as her husband depends upon business news in this paper, she finds in the advertising pages the latest facts and price quotations on all the materials needed for her various jobs.

Food for the family? Butcher and grocer answer on these pages. . . . Curtains, spring dresses for mother and daughter, slip covers? Department store and specialty shop are ready. She has preferences about fuels and milk, dental creams and even motor oil — all determined by her persistent, intelligent reading of advertisements.

That's why, when she is termed officially "housewife," she can run six jobs instead of one, and have time left over for amusement and relaxation. (The advertisements help her here too.)
